

SASMI PHOTOS FOR MEDIA USE

The following permissions apply to all photos below: All rights granted for media and public use

1.

Caption: An aerial view shows salt marsh adjacent to the runway at Naval Station Mayport in Jacksonville, Florida.

Credit: Mark Bias

Link to download: https://marshforward.org/media/gumacw0i/1_naval-station-mayport_credit-mark-bias.jpg

2.

Caption: A military helicopter conducts training exercises over protected lands and salt marshes at Cumberland Island, Georgia.

Credit: Mark Bias

Link to download: https://marshforward.org/media/ooxpuimu/2_military-helicopter_credit-mark-bias.jpg

3.

Caption: The Nassau River–St. Johns River Marshes Aquatic Preserve in northeast Florida is among the many areas whose managers work to monitor, research, and protect salt marsh and associated habitats.

Credit: Mark Bias

Link to download: https://marshforward.org/media/risjgw1r/3_nassau-river_credit-mark-bias.jpg

4.

Caption: Great Marsh Island, Florida, was restored as part of efforts to address severe erosion and nearby navigation concerns.

Credit: Mark Bias

Link to download: https://marshforward.org/media/ffgb2yl5/4_great-marsh-island_credit_mark-bias.jpg

5.

Caption: Recreational anglers prepare to release a fish caught along the marsh edge in South Carolina.

Credit: Kaitlyn Hackathorn/South Carolina Department of Natural Resources

Link to download: https://marshforward.org/media/o3lpc0dm/5_recreational-anglers_credit-kaitlyn-hackathorn-scdnr.jpg

6.

Caption: Salt marsh provides ample opportunities for fishers of all types to ply its silty waters.

Credit: E. Weeks/South Carolina Department of Natural Resources

Link to download: https://marshforward.org/media/q2ohddvl/6_girl-fishing_credit-e-weeks-scdnr.jpg

7.

Caption: Clapper rails find food, shelter, and a place to raise their young in this highly productive habitat.

Credit: E. Weeks/South Carolina Department of Natural Resources

Link to download: https://marshforward.org/media/lbvpljem/7_clapper-rail-chick_credit-e-weeks-scdnr.jpg

8.

Caption: Saltmarsh sparrows, which depend on the region's salt marshes for overwintering habitat, have experienced rapid declines over the past decades.

Credit: USFWS

Link to download: https://marshforward.org/media/5bwnj12q/8_saltmarsh-sparrow_credit-usfws.jpg

9.

Caption: Bulkheads and other barriers like this sea wall on Jekyll Island, Georgia, block the ability of salt marsh to migrate upslope as sea levels rise and can accelerate their degradation and eventual loss.

Credit: Cam Jaggard/The Pew Charitable Trusts

Link to download: https://marshforward.org/media/n0xnbs4r/9_bulkheads-on-jekyll-island_credit-cameron-jaggard.jpg

10.

Caption: The Altamaha River corridor provides important habitat for a variety of terrestrial and aquatic species.

Credit: Cam Jaggard/The Pew Charitable Trusts

Link to download: https://marshforward.org/media/kpqir52p/10_altamaha-river-corridor_credit-cameron-jaggard.jpg

